20/05/2022 · they are subject to strong dynamical constraints. Those sys-tems thus represent ideal candidates to test the role of planet-planet gravitational interactions in the formation and evolu-tion of planetary systems (e.g. Hadden & Payne 2020). How-ever, as those systems are often composed of small planets, they are also observationally challenging ...

This PAF also has the potential to use spatial filtering techniques to place pattern nulls in the direction of interfering signals through the use of an orthogonal projection. This work will also present an improved method for computing an orthogonal projection operator, which is able to place a spatially broad null in the direction of a ...
